BACKGROUND

The virtual world is much busier than ever due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The push to reduce face-to-face interactions during the Covid-19 pandemic has prioritized digitization and automation. However, at the beginning of the pandemic, digitalization and automation sought to be accelerated in part because their adoption helps reduce the need for physical contact. People also switch to using gadgets and computers as a means of survival to replace various activities directly. These changes in society impact economic development by accelerating its digital transformation. This massive digital transformation certainly affects changes in consumer and business behavior. These considerations provide us to pose the issues by establishing The Seventh Gadjah Mada International Conference on Islamic Economics and Development (Gama ICIED), The Seventh Gadjah Mada International Conference on Islamic Business Research (Gama ICIBR) and The Sixth Gadjah Mada International Conference on Islamic Accounting and Finance (Gama ICIAF). With the theme “Digital Transformation in Economics, Business, and Accounting: Some notes from an Islamic Economics Perspective,”. It is expected that these conferences may offer the collaboration between government, academia, and the practitioner to corroborate the efforts to overcome the impact of the pandemic and future research directions in these areas.
