Index of Authors

This book, Collaborative Efforts in International Construction Management is a compilation of 35 papers and is presented in three parts:

- Part 1 consisting of 7 papers for the Inaugural Conference Construction in the Muslim World. The papers contained therein review pertinent issues, problems and strategies related to the construction industries, the state of education and training and on aspects of Shari'ah compliance in construction management relevant to the countries of the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) and beyond.
- Part 2 consisting of 24 papers for the 5th International Conference on Multi-national Joint Ventures for Construction Works. The papers contained therein examine concepts, theories, practice and discusses problems and strategies in multi-national joint ventures for construction works.
- Part 3 consisting of 5 papers for the 2nd Construction Law and Economics Circle of Asia Pacific (CLECAP) conference and workshop. The papers contained therein relate to education, training and development in construction law, construction economics and in construction contract administration for experts from countries of the Asia and Pacific region.

This book is considered most appropriate to fill in information gaps for in essence it presents wide ranging issues, problems, solutions, concepts, theories, practices and education and training of experts in international construction management focusing on countries of the Muslim world and in the Asia and Pacific region and would become one of the key references to be sought by practitioners, academics, students, researchers, civil servants and policy makers and others related to construction management in general but especially to construction academics and practitioners in the Muslim world and in the Asia and Pacific region.
