BACKGROUND

Pulau Tioman was gazetted as a marine park in 1994 and consists of nine islands in the state of Pahang. Pulau Tioman is the largest island with an area of 135km². The other islands are Pulau Sembilang, Pulau Seri Buat, Pulau Tulai, Pulau Cebeh, Pulau Labas, Pulau Sepoi, Pulau Gut and Pulau Tokong Bahara.

Today, Pulau Tioman is known for tourism and as a marine park and has historical significance for its use as a place of rest and replenishment for seafarers during long sea voyages. Various artifacts of historical importance has been found and excavated from Nipah and Juara villages in the 1970's and 1980's. Throughout recent years the island has changed from a dominantly fisheries oriented island to a tourism based island.

The islands are surrounded by crystal clear waters with rich fringing coral reefs. Therefore they are considered to be a valuable resource for the country directly in the form of tourism and indirectly to the adjacent commercial fisheries industry.

Past research conducted on Pulau Tioman has addressed the state of terrestrial flora and fauna, marine resources such as corals, macroinvertebrates, coral fish, and marine flora, and the impacts of tourism and development activities on the environment of the island. However, there has not been a well coordinated and concerted effort between scientists and the management of Pulau Tioman Marine Park to address ongoing and future issues relevant to this group of islands. This workshop would act as a catalyst towards a comprehensive, usable scientific output that can assist the management to make informed and correct decisions.

It also augurs well for scientists working in Pulau Tioman that the University of Malaya Marine Research Station has been established in collaboration with the Marine Parks Section. The University of Malaya Maritime Research Centre (UMMReC) which will organise and manage the running of the research station welcomes the use of its facilities for research by other organisations and research institutes.

Objectives of Workshop

- 1) To discover and disseminate to stakeholders all relevant scientific research and data that is available;
- 2) To enhance collaboration between research institutions or individuals with guidance from management on current priority issues;
- 3) To agree on utilizing the marine research station as a platform for further research on Pulau Tioman;
- 4) To come up with a viable and attainable research and management plan.

Oral and Poster Papers: Oral papers will be presented by invited speakers. Poster papers are invited from all interested participants. Posters may address any research issue in the Tioman Group of Islands. However, priority will be given to those that address marine & coastal biodiversity and resources. The aim of the poster papers is to give an idea of the type and breadth of research that has been conducted in the Tioman Group of Islands, and will form the basis for the discussion session on Future Research Priorities. All extended abstracts will be distributed at the workshop.
