Ethics and Fiqh for Everyday Life is designed to be a textbook for students. The purpose of this book is to develop knowledge and understanding of ethical issues and fiqh, contemporary for students’ personal and professional lives. Its contents constitute two parts, namely: Islamic ethics and fiqh for everyday life. The first part focuses on major Islamic ethical concepts: core moral values, family ethics, Islamic ethics – as applied in different professions, inter-personal ethics and ethnic relations. Whereas, the second part deals with the general view of Islamic fiqh and its schools: the objectives of Shari’ah (maqāṣid al-shari’ah), contemporary issues in biomedical ethics, family, environment, ICT, and finance.

The raison d'être for this important textbook, with its thirteen chapters, authored by experienced and multi-disciplinary scholars – discussing multiple ethical and fiqh issues, is to assist readers, especially students, to realize the importance of ethics in Islam, understand ethical issues from the Islamic perspective and create awareness of the importance of fiqh in everyday life. Upon reading this book, readers will be able to describe the importance of Islamic ethics and fiqh in everyday life and demonstrate the relationship between ethics, fiqh and law. It is expected that they will feel able to internalize and transform this knowledge, applying it into their routines and professional lives and to respond to contemporary moral challenges, from the standpoint of Islam. Thus, realizing their sole purpose of existence; as a good servant ('abd) and vicegerent (khilafah) of Allah, on this earth.
