Abstract
Purpose: This study aims to find important factors of Malaysian Islamic banking customers' loyalty or continuance intention to use Islamic mobile banking services. Design/methodology/approach: The primary data are collected from the survey administered to 250 customers in the Klang Valley and the analysis is conducted using partial least squares (PLS). Findings: Based on the findings, continuance intention of using Islamic mobile banking services was found to be dependent on the usability of mobile banking services, customer service provided by Islamic banks towards mobile banking services, customer satisfaction in mobile banking services and trust of customers towards mobile banking services. In addition, the mediating effect of Islamic mobile banking services continuance intention is significantly influenced by customer satisfaction and trust.

Originality/value: This paper offers an additional literature on Islamic mobile banking, especially from the Malaysian context. There is a lack of study that focuses on loyalty towards Islamic mobile banking services. The paper is considered to be the first attempt to examine the factors that influence Malaysian Islamic banking customers' loyalty or continuance intention to use Islamic mobile banking services.
