This article examines:

- Bi-national idea - spiritual Zionism → anti-separatist and anti-partinionist ideology,

- Programmes

- Reception among the Arabs of Palestine.

.First, Review the origins of bi-nationalism, spiritual trend of Zionism = theoretical framework for bi-national thought and its anti-separatist, anti-partitionist component,

.Second, review the theoretical framework

.Then, concrete propositions that came from the bi-nationalist framework, through contacts with the Arabs, the reactions and the alternative propositions after the first partition proposal.

.However, as we will see, their action would be drastically diminished and receive less attention as it was perceived as obsolete after 1948.

.Finally, and before concluding by sharing the major criticisms of the bi-national movement, I will inspect the Arab response to bi-nationalism.
