Religion and Culture in Asia Pacific

Violence or Healing?

Edited by
Joseph A. Camilleri
La Trobe University, Melbourne

with the assistance of
Larry Marshall

Vista Publications
Melbourne

© Pax Christi Australia, 2001

This book is copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purposes of private study, research, criticism, or review as permitted under the Copyright Act 1968 and subsequent amendments, no part may be reproduced by any process without written permission. Inquiries should be made to Pax Christi Australia, PO Box 31, Carlton South, Victoria 3053, Australia.

National Library of Australia
Cataloguing-in-Publication Entry:

291.178

ISBN: 1 876370 025

Front cover design Mario Cicivelli
Layout and design Eva Fabian
Printing Arena Printing and Publishing
Contents

Notes on contributors
Acknowledgements
Preface

Perspectives on Religion and Culture
1. The Key to Reconciliation: sharing the memory of the past
   Peter Carnley
2. Building Effective Ethical-moral Co-operation in a Pluralist
   Universe Wan Azizah Wan Ismail
3. Are Religions for or Against Human Security? from closed to open religiosity Kinhide Mushakoji
4. Religion in Asia Pacific Region: the challenge without;
   the change within Chandra Muzaffar

Healing Divided Societies
5. Horizontal Conflict and the Ordinary People of Post-Soeharto
   Indonesia Wimar Witoelar
6. Healing Divided Societies: the Sri Lankan experience
   A. T. Ariyaratne
7. Healing Divisions after Conflict in Bougainville
   Lorraine Garasu
8. Religion and Culture in Fiji: violence or healing?
   Ganesh Chand

The Role of Islam
9. Islam and the West: conflict or co-operation?
   Amin Saikal
10. Islam and Christianity in Indonesia: the roots of conflict and hostility Azyumardi Azra
11. Islam and the West: the Australian experience
    Jamila Hussain

Reclaiming Spirituality
12. The Prophets and the Murderers: re-enchanting peace with prophetic paradigms Chaiwat Satha-Anand
13. Inter-faith Dialogue: moving forward; setting premises and paradigms Kamar Oniah Kamaruzaman 113
14. Resisting State Authority by Mobilizing Spiritual Resources Gan Teik Chee 129

Human Rights 129
15. Striving for a Truly Spiritual Culture Swami Agnivesh 130
17. Burma, a Country in Conflict: ethnic and religious conflict as a consequence of political conflict Myint Cho 149
18. Peacekeeping in Cambodia: from Cold War conflict towards democracy Sue Downie 163

Practical Initiatives 177
20. The Nuclear Challenge in Asia Pacific: the way forward Ronald McCoy 185
21. Inter-Civilization Dialogue and Conflict Resolution K. Haridas 195

Concluding Reflections 205
Joseph A. Camilleri

Appendices 211
Appendix 1: Report on Workshop discussions 212
Appendix 2: A Note on Pax Christi Australia, JUST, and the Uniting Church of Australia 227
In today's globalized, cosmopolitan world, inter-faith or inter-religious dialogue is no longer just a commendable enterprise but a necessity. Communications technology has made it so. It has taken away boundaries and borders so that there is no longer a need to apply for passports and visas, or airplane hassles, to reach someone across the globe. People learn from each other at the click of a button. In learning from and sharing with others, people revise their personal views, and ultimately their personal culture. Personal culture is now part of social culture. The result is what we see around us today: there are no longer particular cultures; there is just one culture, and that culture is the global culture. This may be viewed with suspicion by some, if not many. Still, this seems to be the shape of the future.

If such is to be the future, then it is wise to prepare for it. The better prepared we are, the better we will be able to handle the course of events. Paramount in the fear of nations and communities, particularly the smaller ones, is the possibility of being swallowed up by the bigger powers into a world largely shaped by them.